An Excerpt from Theseus and the Minotaur

Theseus, who was the prince of Athens, was fed up. Minos has been telling Athens what to do for nine years. Tomorrow, 14 more children would be shipped off to meet the Minotaur. He went over his clever plan in his head and knocked on the wooden door of his father's study.

Before Aegeus could even stand up to meet his son, Theseus had started talking. "This deal with Minos has gone on for too long. Families are terrified that their children will be picked next, which doesn't make us very well-liked. We should be protecting our people – not feeding them to the Minotaur! Tomorrow, when the boat comes, I am going to take the place of one of the boys who is to be sacrificed. Then, I will defeat the Minotaur and we can live in peace."

Aegeus was shocked. He knew that his son was strong and brave but the Minotaur was huge and fierce. In fact, it was so fierce that it had to be locked inside a complex maze. Aegeus begged Theseus to find another way but he had already made up his mind. Eventually, Aegeus had to agree.
